Required Texts:

Immanuel Kant, Practical Philosophy, ed. & tr. (Mary Gregor), Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1996).

Seminar Requirements:

I. Class participation: Attendance and active participation in every class is required.

II. Weekly Short writing assignments. Every week, you should write one long paragraph about what you found most interesting and one long paragraph about what you found most puzzling (totaling about 400 words). You must write about the primary texts and can write about secondary sources. These writing assignments are due on Sunday evening and must be distributed to the class.

III. One book review (1200 words): Choose one book from the list below, and write a 1200-word book review. (We will have a signup sheet so that we have broad coverage of the books.) Devote two thirds of the review to stating what the book's main thesis and argument is and one third to a respectful but critical interpretive take on it. It is due by Friday of Week 8. Your review must be sent to the entire class (so that everyone can benefit from your expertise).
