Course Description: The course will be divided into two overarching topics. The first concerns the ethics, political theory, and legal theory of voting. We will attempt to answer questions such as the following: Is there a duty to vote? Is there a right to vote, and, if so, who has it? What should the voting age be? Are laws requiring voting acceptable? Is it rational to vote? The second concerns the questions of whether there is a duty to obey the law, and whether there are conditions under which it is permissible to disobey it (and, if so, what those conditions are). In each case, we will connect the theoretical questions at hand with current events and cases.

Course Readings: All course readings are available through the class website.
