

Title: Another Problem in Possible World Semantics

Abstract: In "A Problem in Possible-World Semantics" (1995), David Kaplan presented a consistent and intelligible modal principle that can never be true according to possible world semantics. In this talk, based on joint work with Yifeng Ding (UC Berkeley), I will present another problem for possible world semantics in the spirit of Kaplan's problem.