Overview

This class investigates current environmental issues through the prism of philosophy—primarily ethics, political philosophy, the philosophy of biology and the philosophy of economics. The first half of the class addresses philosophical issues pertaining to animals. What is the moral significance of species membership? What principles of interpretation should govern our investigations of other species’ abilities? Is it credible to think any nonhuman species make moral judgements? And how should we conceive the notion of species itself? The second half of the class looks beyond animals to the environment more broadly. We will briefly examine the debate over whether non-sentient life possesses inherent moral value before investigating three questions pertaining to anthropogenic climate change. Do developed countries have a special obligation to pay for the costs of preventing it? What is the correct discounting rate, if any, to apply to the future costs of climate change? Finally, do moral obligations to future generations entail an obligation to prevent global warming? The class is designed to be accessible to students with minimal background in philosophy.

Assessment

Assessment for the class will consist of:

A weekly online quiz about the class readings worth 10 percent of the final mark, due each week five minutes before our first class (normally Mondays at 12:55 pm)

A short essay (1,000 words) worth 15 percent of the final mark, due Tues. Jan. 28

A major essay (2000 words) worth 25 percent of the final mark, due Tues. Feb. 25

An exam worth 40 percent of the final mark

Class attendance and participation worth 10 percent of the final mark

Reading Quizzes

Each week a quiz will be available on TED containing four multiple choice questions about that week’s readings. Each weekly quiz will be worth 1.4% of the final class grade. Students who correctly answer at least three of the four questions will receive full marks for that week. Students who correctly answer less than three questions will receive a mark of zero for that week. Students are expected to complete the quiz for seven of the ten weeks during which it will be available (7 X 1.4 = 10% of the final class grade). While TED will be configured to permit taking the quiz more than seven times, only the first seven attempts will count toward a mark.

General Information

Office Hours

I will be keeping both normal and electronic office hours between 2:30-3:30 pm on Mondays and Wednesdays. You are welcome to drop by in person or, if you prefer, contacting me via Skype. Just drop me an email so I know to go on Skype, where my ID is andy_lamey. I am also available by appointment outside my office hours. I am always happy to discuss any aspect of this course with you.

Email Policy

I will be happy to reply to emails sent from UCSD email addresses. I do not reply to emails from non-UCSD addresses.

Please note that there are three subjects I do not discuss by email, even if they are sent from a UCSD account. These are:

a) Requests for information about the exam that arrive in the 24-hour period immediately preceding the exam.

b) Requests for the release of exam results by email.

c) Requests to adjust your final class grade. If you have an issue with your grade please make an appointment to discuss it during my office hour next quarter.

Submission

Both essays in this class will be submitted electronically. Students are not required to submit a hard copy.

Extensions

I am happy to grant extensions of up to 48 hours without requiring a medical certificate or other documentation. In order to grant such an extension I need to receive your request before noon on the day the assessment in question is due (email is fine). Requests received after noon on the due date will require documentation, as will requests for extensions longer than 48 hours. Please note that if you receive an extension your paper may be graded and returned a few days after those that were completed on time.

Late Work

For all short assignments (1,000 words or less), if your work is submitted late without an extension, your mark will be capped at a bare pass (60%). You will not receive comments on your work. Short assignments submitted more than 7 days late without an extension cannot be accepted at all without a medical certificate or similar documentation.

For all assignments of 1,000 words or more handed in after the due date and without an extension, a five percent penalty applies for the first day of the missed deadline. After that, a subsequent penalty of two percent per day will be applied for the next thirteen calendar days after the due date (including Saturdays and Sundays). No assignment can be accepted after more than fourteen calendar days except in exceptional circumstances and in consultation with your instructor. Assignments that are handed in late and without extension will be graded and returned after those that were completed on time and will not receive comments.

Feedback on written work may take the form of written comments or oral comments from the instructor in a recorded video.

The University expects that both faculty and students will honor this principle and in so doing protect the validity of University intellectual work. For students, this means that all academic work will be done by the individual to whom it is assigned, without unauthorized aid of any kind. More information about UCSD’s policy on academic integrity is available at http://senate.ucsd.edu/manual/appendices/appendix2.pdf.
