The course will focus on the relation between tragedy and philosophy. That there was a connection between the two was taken for granted by ancient philosophers, especially Aristotle, and it has been defended by some philosophers of the modern era, e.g., Hegel and Nietzsche. We will critically examine the philosophical theories about tragedy in the ancient and modern eras and discuss several ancient tragic plays by the Greek tragic dramatists against the background of these theories and the objectives and intellectual aims of the dramatists.

Texts:
- Nietzsche, The Birth of Tragedy
- Aristotle, Poetics
- B. Williams, Shame and Necessity
- Aeschylus, Vol. II, Oresteia
- Sophocles, Vol. I (Oedipus Rex, Oedipus at Colonus, Antigone)
- Euripides, Vol. I (Medea, Hippolytus)
- Euripides, Vol. V (Bacchae)
- Materials on BLACKBOARD (TED)

READINGS

Tragedy vs. Tragic Vision of Life and World
- a. M. Krieger, “Tragedy and the Tragic Vision” (Blackboard)
- b. L. Abel, “Is there a Tragic Sense of Life?” (Blackboard)
- c. M. Unamuno, “The Hunger of Immortality” (Blackboard)
- d. S. Kierkegaard, “The Ancient Tragical Motif as Reflected in the Modern” (Blackboard) *

Theories of Tragedy
- a. Plato, Republic, from Book X (Blackboard)
  - P. Woodruff, “Aristotle on Mimesis” (Blackboard)
  - R. Janko, “From Catharsis to the Aristotelian Mean” (Blacboard)
- c. Hegel, “From The Philosophy of Fine Art” (Blackboard)
  - A.C. Bradley, “Hegel’s Theory of Tragedy” (Blackboard) *
  - T. Nagel, “The Fragmentation of Value” (Blackboard)
- d. Nietzsche, The Birth of Tragedy, Sections: 1, 2, 7, 8, 10-13, 16, 17, 21, 22, 24, 25
  - S.L. Sorgner, “Nietzsche [on Music]” (Blackboard) *

Our Understanding of/Relating to Greek Tragedy
- a. B. Williams, Chapters I and II.
Some General Issues in Greek Tragedy
   a. P.E. Easterling, “Introduction to the Greek Theatre” (Blackboard)
   b. D. Cairns, “Values” (Blackboard) *
   c. P. Wilson, “Music” (Blackboard) *
   d. D. Mastronarde, “The Gods” (Blackboard) *

Aeschylus, Oresteia.
   a. S. Said, “Aeschylean Tragedy” (Blackboard) *
   b. B. Williams, Chapters. III and VI.
   c. A. Lesky, “Decision and Responsibility in the Tragedy of Aeschylus” (Blackboard)
   d. H. Lloyd-Jones, “The Guilt of Agamemnon”
   e. P.E. Easterling, “Presentation of Character in Aeschylus” (blackboard)

Sophocles, Oedipus Rex and Oedipus at Colonus.
   a. R. Scodel, “Sophoclean Tragedy” (Blackboard) *
   b. Nietzsche, “Sophoclean Tragedy,” (Blackboard)
   c. S. Freud, “Oedipus Rex” (Blackboard)
   d. E.R. Dodds, “On Misunderstanding the Oedipus Rex” (Blackboard)
   e. H. Rosenberg, “The Riddles of Oedipus” (Blackboard)

Sophocles, Antigone.
   a. C. Segal, “Sophocles’ Praise of Man and the Conflicts of the Antigone” (Blackboard)
   b. P.E. Easterling, “Character in Sophocles” (Blackboard)

Euripides, Hippolytus and Medea.
   a. J. Gregory, “Euripidean Tragedy” (Blackboard) *
   b. G.M.A. Grube, “Euripides and the Gods” (Blackboard)
   c. E. Schlesinger, “On Euripides’ Medea” (Blackboard)
   d. Aristotle on Akrasia (moral weakness), from his Nicomachean Ethics (Blackboard)
   e. H. Lorenz, “Aristotle’s Analysis of Akratic Action” (Blackboard)
   f. D. Davidson, “Paradoxes of Irrationality” (Blackboard)

Euripides, Bacchae.
   a. H. Diller, “Euripides’ Final Phase: The Bacchae” (Blackboard)

Books on Reserve:
   B. Vickers, Towards Greek Tragedy.

Writing Requirements for the Course
The writing requirements for the class will be two papers, each about 8-10 pages long. The first paper will be due in class on Tuesday of the sixth week (February 9); the second will be due by Wednesday of Finals Week (March 16), 5:00 pm, in my mailbox (HSS 7th Floor). Topics for the papers will be handed out in class at least two weeks before each paper is due. Each paper will be worth 45 points. The remaining 10 points will be distributed as follows: 5 points for two brief in-class quizzes (2.5 points each); 5 points for your participation in and contribution to class discussion.