Overview

This class applies philosophical analysis to questions concerning technology. We begin with a brief examination of theoretical positions for and against technological determinism before examining philosophical issues arising from particular forms of technology, including nuclear bombs, military robots, geoengineer, the Internet, fMRI machines and artificial intelligence.

Assessment

Students are requires to write four essays in this class according to the following schedule, collectively worth 75% of the final grade:

A 1,500-word essay due 5:00 pm Tuesday April 25
A 2000-word word essay due 5:00 pm Tuesday May 23
Two exam-essays due during the scheduled exam time

The best three essays will count toward the final grade.

If a student only writes three essays, their final grade will be based on their best two essay grades and a third essay grade of zero. Similarly, if a student writes only two essays, their final grade will be based on their best essay grade and two essay grades of zero. In other words, a student’s worst essay grade is always excluded when determining their final class grade.

The remainder of the class grade will be based on the following:

In-class clicker sessions (10%)   Participation (15%) (attendance 5 + discussion 10)

Students who miss more than two classes without an excuse will receive an attendance grade of zero.
Students who are taking this class pass/fail who achieve a participation grade of A- or higher do not have to complete the final exam essays.

General Information

Office Hours

I will be keeping both normal and electronic office hours. You are welcome to drop by in person or, if you prefer, contacting me via Skype. Just drop me an email so I know to go on Skype, where my ID is andy_lamey. I am also available by appointment outside my office hours. I am always happy to discuss any aspect of this course with you.

Email Policy

I am happy to reply to emails sent from UCSD email addresses. I do not reply to emails from non-UCSD addresses. Please note that there are two subjects I do not discuss by email, even if they are sent from a UCSD account. These are:

a) Requests for information about the exam that arrive in the 24-hour period immediately preceding the exam.

b) Requests to adjust your final class grade. If you have an issue with your grade please make an appointment to discuss it during my office hour next quarter.

Submission

Both essays in this class will be submitted electronically. Students are not required to submit a hard copy.

One-time Discretionary Essay Extension

I am happy to grant each student one essay extension of up to 48 hours without requiring a medical certificate or other documentation. In order to grant such an extension I need to receive your request before noon on the day the essay in question is due. Email is fine, but please note that UCSD’s email servers sometimes go down, and students are advised not to leave their requests to the last minute. Requests received after noon on the due date will require documentation, as will requests for extensions longer than 48 hours. Please note that if you receive an extension your paper may be returned a few days after those that were completed on time.

Note that each student is entitled to only one discretionary essay extension. So if you receive one for your first essay, any extension for the second essay will require documentation.

Late Work

For all assignments of 1,000 words or more handed in after the due date and without an extension, a five percent penalty applies for the first day of the missed deadline. After that, a subsequent penalty of two percent per day will be applied for the next thirteen calendar days after the due date (including Saturdays and Sundays). No assignment can be accepted after more than fourteen calendar days except in exceptional circumstances and in consultation with your instructor. Assignments that are handed in late and without extension will be returned after those completed on time and will not receive comments.

Feedback
Feedback on written work may take the form of written comments or oral comments from the instructor in a recorded video.

Students requesting accommodations for this course due to a disability must provide a current Authorization for Accommodation (AFA) letter issued by the Office for Students with Disabilities (OSD) which is located in University Center 202 behind Center Hall.
