

Ontological Demotion and Spinoza

Spinoza notoriously holds that we are modes, not substances. What leads him to such an apparently odd view? Is his thesis mainly of interest for technical metaphysics, or does it matter for our everyday life? In this talk I try to motivate the thesis and explain why it is something that we should care about.